

eCornell Courses for Islamic Relief Staff

eCornell e-learning

Format of the Class

eCornell offers its courses in an asynchronous format during a pre-determined two –week time frame. Students do not have to be on the computer at a specific time of day; but must complete the work within the course period. This means that the learner completes assignments with the class, participates in mandatory discussion boards, interacts with the instructor, and may attend office hours with the instructor.

Students must have a reliable internet connection, strong fluency in English, and between 10-20 hours available over the 2 or 3 week course duration.

What to Expect

Plan on a LOT of reading and a LOT of homework. An average class takes 10-20 hours to complete. It is not unusual for an instructor to return homework to a student and ask for revisions on the assignment to successfully complete the course. Students are required to participate in the group discussions (through a discussion board). It's helpful to complete the eCornell profile to interact with fellow students.

Rules and restrictions

- You must have approval from your line manager to take any eCornell course.
- Your line manager must approve the spend of $50.00 USD, which will be charged to your office.

Class format: In these online courses, you will complete assignments with the class, have open discussions with the class and interact with the instructor. You will need to complete the reading and assignments. It is possible the Learning Team will review your assignments and ask you to redo parts of it. Classes are two weeks in length each and you must complete your assignments during that time. It's also mandatory that you participate in the group discussions and complete a student profile so your fellow students know who you are. Participants have generally dedicated 8-12 hours of time to each two-week course.

Please be aware: eCornell's Learning Management System no longer supports IE9 or any older versions of Internet Explorer. For more information about the most up-to-date technical requirements to run eCornell courses efficiently, please see our Technical Requirements page.

Course Description

In this course, you will create a strategy to turn a work group into a high-functioning team by evaluating challenges and applying techniques to generate positive team outcomes. Based on the research and expertise of Professor Kate Walsh, PhD, of Cornell University's School of Hotel Administration, you will learn how to enable a team to take ownership of its own success and shift leadership roles as the team assumes greater responsibility.

Using tools provided in this course, you will explore best practices in leading teams, assess case studies, and examine functional conflict. With the completion of an action plan at the end of the course, you will be ready to apply what you learn to your own organization.
